HERB J. VOS, 44, DIES SUDDENLY OF HEART ATTACK

Community Mourns Passing of Antioch Business Man;
Was Civic Leader

SIX HUNDRED GRIEVE AT IMPRESSIVE RITES

Every resident of Antioch bowed to the stunning blow delivered the community Sunday afternoon unable to realize that death had claimed Herbert J. Vos until resuscitation was pronounced yesterday at services in St. Peter's Catholic church.

Mr. Vos, widely known Antioch lumberman, former village trustee, and prominent in civic affairs of the region for the last 20 years, died suddenly at his home, 698 Main street, about three o'clock Sunday afternoon of a heart attack. He had attended church in the morning and had shown no signs of the fatal attack.

Mr. Vos, who was born in Burlington, Wisconsin, in 1892, would have celebrated his 45th birthday anniversary Monday, March 1st. He was a son of Henry J. and Josephine Vos, and received his education in the city of his birth where he spent his early youth. On June 15, 1915, he was married to Nelle McCarthy, also of Burlington.

In Antioch Since 1917

Since he first came to Antioch on April 17th, 1917, Mr. Vos has been engaged in the lumber and coal business, starting as a partner of the late Conrad Buschman. Some years later he bought his partner's interest and formed his own company, The Antioch Lumber & Coal Company, which was incorporated and which he served as president until his death. His company absorbed the H. R. Adams Lumber company of Antioch following the death of Horace R. Adams.

Because of his deep interest in the promotion and development of the Lakes Region, Mr. Vos was considered the sparkplug for his constant activities and friendly interest in every move for civic betterment of Antioch. For 13 years he served as a member of the village board of trustees, declining to run for re-election for the office at the election two years ago. He was a prime mover in building up the Lakes Region as the ideal summer playground in Chicago.

Heled Many Offices

Other offices which claimed part in his intensely busy life up to his death were: Secretary of the Chain O' Lakes country club; Secretary of the Buckley Sand & Gravel Co.; President of the Lake County Lumberman's association; President of the Antioch Dairy company; Director of the First National Bank of Antioch; Director of the Antioch Milling company; Trustee of St. Peter's Catholic church.

Mr. Vos was a fourth degree member of the Knights of Columbus of the Bishop Henni Council in Milwaukee and a third degree member of the Burlington Council. He was also a member of the Waukegan Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

Mons. Frawley Gave Eulogy

Requiem was held in St. Peter's church at 10 o'clock before a large gathering of friends and acquaintances. Burial was in the Burlington cemetery where a cortege two miles long escorted the departed friend.

Following the impressive rites, Monsignor Daniel J. Frawley, Antioch priest at the time of the erection of the beautiful Catholic church, pronounced an inspiring eulogy to the life of his departed friend. Mr. Vos, it was recalled, was the first cash donor toward the building fund for the Antioch $250,000 edifice. That was eight years ago. Since leaving the Antioch parish, the Rev. Frawley was elevated to the dignity of a Monsignor.

Honorary pall bearers. Knights of the fourth degree K. of C., were: Leo Warren, Wm. Rose, Henry Heiderman, Frank Tobin, Frank Christian, Lawrence Murphy, all of Burlington. Active pallbearers were headed by Mayor George B. Bartlett and others who served with Mr. Vos as members of the board of trustees, including Village Clerk Roy L. Murrie, Trustees James Stearns, Nason E. Sibley, Charles Lux and Fred Hawkins.

Besides his mother and widow, Mr. Vos is survived by two children, Bill, 5, and Jane Ellen, 11; two brothers in Antioch, Edmund and Cletus; Aloys of Kansaville, Wis.; Roman of Hammond, Ind.; and three sisters, Marie Szydowski of Burlington, Elizabeth Oldenberg of Burlington and Lucille Fieriesen of Neenah, Wis.

An esteemed citizen and friend has left Antioch, but the influence of his tireless efforts to public betterment remain as an example to those who were privileged to know, and to work with him.

ANTIOCH FORUM TO HEAR PETTY

School Supt. to Discuss Education at High School PTA Meeting, Mar. 5

County Superintendent of Schools William C. Petty of Antioch will be the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Antioch Township high school forum which will be held Friday, March 5, it was announced this morning by Principal L. O. Bright.

Superintendent Petty has been making several appearances in the county discussing the need for legislative action by the state to provide equal opportunities for all the children of every section of the state. In a recent appearance before the Antioch Men's Civic club, Petty revealed how the state is shirking its duty to the school children and why there exist inequalities for education in Illinois.

The program will also include a style show of garments fashioned by members of the high school home economics classes in sewing and musical selections by the Sequoit boys' glee club.

Sequoit Seniors Rehearse Class Play, "Guess Again"

Senior members of Antioch Township high school went into rehearsal this week to present their class play, "Guess Again," Thursday and Friday nights, April 1 and 2.

According to advance notices it is a three act comedy written by Glean Hughes and involved a strange entanglement of English peers, movie stars and college heroes. The setting is in a California hotel, near the movie capital.

There will be two complete casts of characters for the two nights with the following seniors expecting to take part:

Don Minto, Roger Thill, Albert Dorell, A. Griffith, Robert Madsen, Otto Hanke, R. Griffin, C. Rosenstock, Warren Sheehan, W. Griffin, C. McCormick, H. Groebli, Ted Larson, A. Houghton, Phyllis Mount, Elvera Barth, Dorothy Meyer, Mildred McCorle, A. Daigard, Bertha Petersen, Val Winton, V. Norman, Doris Ferris, Jean Hughes, Leone Buchta, C. Sherman, J. Allher.

Talcott, Dailey Win Waukegan Nominations for Mayor's Office

Mayor Mancel Talcott, seeking his second term as Waukegan governmental head, was an easy winner for the Republican nomination at the primary Tuesday with Leo Dailey named the Democratic nominee in the lopsided victory in his party.

Less than one-third of the city's voting population scratched ballots at the polls in one of the quietest county seat elections on record. Other nominees on the GOP ticket were J. P. Wyllie, former city clerk, for clerk, and Edward Holmberg, city treasurer two years ago, for city treasurer.

In addition to Dailey, other Democrats to win the party nomination are City Clerk Frank G. Wallin for reelection and Emmett McShane for city treasurer.

QUIET CONTROLS ASPIRANTS FOR VILLAGE OFFICE

No Petitions out but Electors Expect Mayor Bartlett, Incumbents to Run

All is quiet on the village election front with no petitions yet in circulation and no whisperings among prospective candidates afloat.

Although the opening date for opening petitions was more than a week ago, Village Clerk Roy L. Murrie announced this morning that political activity within the corporate limits of Antioch is in a state of suspended animation. Final date for filing is Tuesday, March 16.

It is believed that Mayor George B. Bartlett will head a ticket of all incumbents in a bid for re-election to the village administrative offices. Following this belief, Village Clerk Murrie will be in the race for re-election as will Trustees James Stearns, E. O. Hawkins, J. B. Drom, Walter L. Scott, Robert J. Wilton and Laurel D. Powles.

Choose Treasurer, Magistrate

Offices to be filled by the election of a new officer are those of village treasurer and police magistrate. Treasurer Clarence B. Shultz must bow out of the office as treasurer by law cannot succeed themselves to office. With the resignation of Police Magistrate Joseph C. James who was appointed justice of the peace and is a candidate for election in the township election April 6, the magistrate's post is wide open.

As has been the custom in the past, a caucus of the Citizen's party is expected to be held within the next two weeks to pick nominees for the village slate headed by Mayor Bartlett and the incumbents.

Served 12 Years

Mayor Bartlett, should he choose to run, will be seeking his seventh consecutive term as head man of the village. Clerk Murrie was the chief voter-getter at the last village election with 494 ballots in his favor. Bartlett was returned to office over Arthur Maplethorpe, the Independent candidate by 95 votes. Trustee Scott, running on the Independent ticket, was the only candidate from that party to be elected two years ago.

County Holstein Breeders Elect New Officials

Herman Dunker was elected president of the Lake County Holstein club at the annual meeting held in Grayslake Friday, which was featured with an address by Professor H. R. Rhode of the University of Illinois.

Other officers chosen are: George Leikani, vice-president; C. W. Wray, secretary; Frank Witz, treasurer; and directors, N. G. Coltin, E. E. Elsberry and Henry Wegener. It was voted to stage the annual Back and White round-up on June 19.

Professor Rhode outlined a method of proving sires through co-operative efforts of a group of breeders and then keeping the ones proven to excel in use for their life-time. The most satisfactory arrangement, he said, is where five breeders will own five bulls together. Each year every sire is transferred to a different herd until his ability is established.

He pointed out that last year in Illinois 119 sires of all breeds were studied as to ability to transmit production, 65 being found to lower production and 54 to increase it.

Dr. Preston Bradley to Address Dairymen

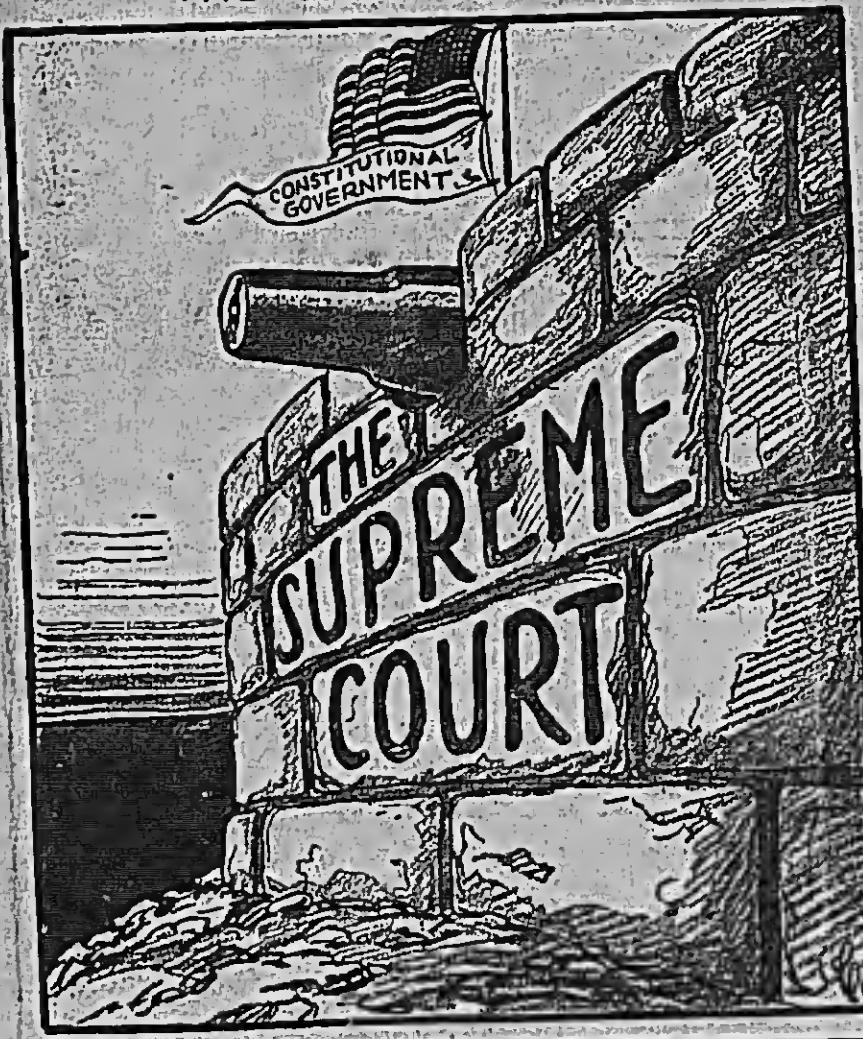

Dr. Preston Bradley, nationally prominent Chicago pastor for the past twenty-five years, will be the featured speaker at the Pure Milk Association's annual meeting in Chicago on March 9th, it was revealed by Association officials.

While his message to Pure Milk Association Members will not be the nature of a sermon, Dr. Bradley is a most successful pastor. He has an average attendance of 1500 every Sunday in his church, with the service being broadcast by WJJD.

Hurt in Crash

James Story, 49, of Lake Villa sustained bruises on the forehead and cuts on the nose Saturday afternoon after the car he was driving and another machine driven by Robert Lang, 26, of Waukegan were in collision at Ninth and Adams sts., Waukegan. Both cars were badly damaged and Story was treated at the Jane Dow Emergency hospital. Lang was arrested for speeding.

THE LAST FORTRESS

INTEREST LAGS IN TOWN VOTERS AS FILING ENDS

Only J. P., Constable Cam- paigns Offer Interest; Light Vote Looms

With the final filing date set for Tuesday, March 2, the race for election to Antioch township offices looms as a rather peaceful campaign.

Town Clerk C. F. Richards and Assessor Ernest Simous appear to be unopposed in their bid for re-election as no aspirants have yet appeared to oust these veterans from office.

Only three candidates have filed for the offices of justice of the peace, the township records this morning reveal, although four petitions have been taken out.

Sorenson, Brogan or James

In addition to Justices John Brogan and Joseph C. James who have filed for re-election, Raymond E. Sorenson of Park ave., Antioch, is a candidate whose vote-getting ability against the late J. B. Dickson qualifies him as a heavy aspirant for election. Both Justices Brogan and James were appointed to the offices by the county board of supervisors to fill vacancies. Charles H. Keller, former justice of the peace of Lake Villa, has taken out a petition but has not filed for a place on the April 6 ballot.

A wide range of candidates for the two constable posts will greet electors with eight already filed and two more petitions to be heard from. Those who have petitions still at large are Thomas Burlette and Thomas Ruyard of Channel Lake.

If constables James A. Webb and Frank Mastne expect to retain their badges, they must defeat Curtis Hadlich, Walter Chinn, William Belter, John Pacini, Jack Flanagan and William Murphy. Constable Mastne will be hindered in his active campaign due to service as a member of the March federal grand jury.

No Library Petitions?

No petitions for township library board members have been filed with the town clerk although a complete slate has been circulated through the township with the names of six candidates including three within the corporate limits of Antioch and three in the rural area.

Mrs. Ruth Ward of Channel Lake and Dr. L. John Zimmerman are candidates for a two year term on the petition, yet to be filed. Mrs. Marion Rigby and D. H. Minto are slated for four year terms. Mrs. Eleanor Miller of Bluff Lake and Dr. R. D. Williams are the six year term candidates.

Political observers believe the township election will be a quiet, sociable affair with little action and a light vote. They base their opinions on the fact that competition for the top offices, on any ticket generally indicates the intensity of an election. They point to the fact that there is no contest for town clerk and town assessor and predict a very quiet April 6.

DR. JENSEN NAMED VETERINARY CHIEF

Antioch Man Elected Presi- dent of State Medical Assn. at Springfield

Dr. G. W. Jensen of Antioch was elected president of the Illinois State Veterinary Medical association at a business session held last week in connection with the 55th annual convention of veterinarians in Springfield.

Other officers named are: C. E. Dille of Cairo, vice-president; C. C. Hastings of Williamson, secretary-treasurer; and Dr. C. L. Miller of Oak Park, member of the executive board.

Dr. Jensen, who has been an active member of the association for several years, has served as president of the executive board. He is an assistant state veterinarian. He has served as president of the Antioch Men's Civic club for the past two years.

Fruit School for Lakes Area Group Set for Wednesday

With prospects for higher average fruit prices during the next few seasons than they have had for the past five years, fruit growers in the Lakes Region will meet in a one-day school to be held in the Farmers Hall, Grayslake, on Wednesday, March 3rd. The program will start at 1:00.

New facts and ideas aimed to help growers make the most of their more favorable outlook will be featured on the program. The school is being held by the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, in cooperation with Farm Adviser H. C. Gilkerson.

Fruit prices promise to be higher during the next few years because of the expected increase in consumer buying power, it was explained. On the other hand, higher prices may not materialize if citrus fruits should be cheaper. Also an abnormally large crop of any abundant fruit would lower prices of that fruit.

V. W. Kelley, horticultural extension specialist of the Agricultural College, and L. M. Shropshire, assistant entomologist of the Illinois State Natural History Survey, will both be at the school. The former will discuss varnish growing and marketing problems, while the latter will report on the insect situation and discuss the 1937 spray program.

A feature of the program will be a pruning demonstration on the farm of Albert J. Stahl, Prairie View, at 10:30 A. M.

Antioch Graders Drop Tourney Tilt; Engage Round Lake for Place

Fox Lake's sharpshooting grade school basketeers eliminated Antioch's grader last night from championship awards in the grade school elimination tournament and will meet Grayslake in the Fox Lake gym tomorrow (Friday) night in the title tilt. Antioch is pitted against Round Lake to determine the third place winner.

Fox Lake's first team smothered the Antioch title hopes under a 25 to 16 count of counters while their second team rolled a natural against the Antioch ponies to win 11 to 7.

Some cities have the best judges that money can buy.

Justices of the peace of the 18 townships in the county met in the county building yesterday with the delinquent tax committee of the board of supervisors to consider methods to be used to collect delinquent personal property taxes.

Nearly 10,000 of the 16,000 personal property owners in the county listed by assessors of the 18 townships are delinquent from one to nine years, the justices were told.

According to the plan advocated by the delinquent tax committee, a letter is to be sent to each delinquent informing him that suit will be started in justice courts for due taxes. Payments will be accepted for a time before court procedures are started. If after a reasonable time, no effort is made by the delinquents to meet the tax obligations, summonses will be issued through the justice courts.

Most of the delinquents, some supervisors contend, are able to meet the tax obligations, but have either neglected to make the payments or have willfully passed up paying.

The delinquent tax committee has indicated that it is

Public Trough Cooperating Unsound

Advocates of cooperative selling and purchasing customarily point to the small North European countries as examples of the success of the movement.

The record in these countries is good. Cooperatives have been developed in many fields—but it should be emphasized that they have gone ahead because of ability—not through governmental subsidies.

In Sweden, for example, where cooperative business has been developed on a wide scale, the organizations are subject to taxation, and are regarded as all other businesses. They aren't pets of government.

The better American cooperatives also stand on their own feet—they do not ask subsidies, tax-favoritism or other benefits. But a certain school of cooperative promoters would have them subsidized by the government in order to give cooperative ventures unfair advantages over competing business. This puts the cooperative movement in a bad light, indicating that it cannot succeed on merit.

The American people are in favor of cooperatives, such as the agricultural groups, which pay their own way, take their own chances, and fight their own competitive battles. It is unthinkable, however, that they would favor a policy that would feed cooperatives or any other kind of business at the public trough.

"Soggy Sentimentality"

"In former days it was supposed to be a cardinal virtue in a public man to prevent waste of the public funds," writes Frank Kent. "Today he is treated as something reprehensible . . . That such a state of affairs can exist without public concern is the best evidence of the degree to which the popular mind has been anesthetized by . . . 'soggy sentimentality' . . ."

Emergency spending, taxes and the national debt have marched inexorably to new high records. The magnitude of this spending has given the average citizen an entirely false idea of economic values. Where, a generation ago, we regarded a million dollars as a lot of money, we now read about billions with little or no thought. Where once the country was stirred by the rise of the federal debt to the billion mark, we today view a Federal debt of thirty-five billions with equanimity. Where a single Congress that a generation ago appropriated as much as a billion dollars for a year's Federal spending was once denounced for extravagance, we now take a ten-billion dollar congress for granted.

Whether this is due to "soggy sentimentality" or something else, it is obvious that the public mind has become anesthetized—it fails to see its place in the debt and tax picture. It is almost incredible that we should permit the central government to spend two dollars for every dollar taken in—but we do, with the apparent idea that someone besides ourselves will pay. It is equally incredible that the pre-election promises of "economy," of a thousand officeholders should be openly and even proudly violated—but they are.

When will the American people come out of the ether and realize that they are the ones who must pay the tax and debt load? The government has no way to pay its bills except by taking hard-earned money away from all the people through taxation.

The Answer—Then and Now

The basic argument of those who favor changing the personnel of the Supreme Court to make it fit one economic viewpoint, boils down to a single fundamental issue. The Court, they say, must be reorganized because it is not in tune with the times; because the Constitution prevents much legislation which the people of the country want.

Apparently, there is nothing new about such arguments. More than a hundred years ago they were advanced—and answered so effectively that the answer still stands. Here is what Daniel Webster said then:

"It is hardly too strong to say that the Constitution was made to guard people against the dangers of good intentions, real or pretended . . . There are men in all ages who mean to exercise power usefully—but who mean to exercise it. They mean to govern well, but they mean to govern. They promise to be kind masters but they mean to be masters."

In more recent years Justice Brandeis, the Court's most famous contemporary liberal, put it this way: "Experience should teach us to be most on guard to protect liberty when purposes of government are beneficent. Men born to freedom are naturally alert to repel invasion of their liberty by evil-minded persons. The greatest dangers of liberty lurk in insidious encroachment by men of zeal, well meaning, but without understanding."

Even 150 years ago when the Constitution was adopted and provision made for the Supreme Court as the umpire upon all laws, the drafters provided the Constitutional Amendment as the means for eternally letting the people determine how much of their liberties they wanted to surrender to a powerful centralized government.

The feeling grows in many quarters that the President may have done himself serious harm by his proposal for reorganizing the judiciary. More and more Democratic Senators and Representatives are saying "No!" to his advocacy of a 15-member Supreme Court.

Beards in Victorian Era

In the Victorian era the martial beard was taboo, and it was said that Edward VII, then Prince of Wales, was breaking the Queen's regulations by remaining faithful to the old fashion while wearing field-marshall's uniform. It was pointed out, however, that, if the prince were to remove his beard, he would be unable to wear naval uniform without likewise offending against regulation.

She was devoted to her family and friends. Funeral services were private at the home at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, followed by a service at Graceland cemetery, Chicago, where the body was cremated.

"Mind" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 21.

The Golden Text was, "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding" (Proverbs 3:5).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out! For who hath known the mind of the Lord, or who hath been his counsellor?"

"For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things: to whom be glory for ever" (Romans 11:33; 34).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Mind is God, and God is my all by material sense, because Mind is Spirit, which material sense cannot discern" (p. 310).

Building a Forest

Nature uses many clever schemes of checks and balances in its process of building a forest. If there are open spaces in the woods that permit plenty of sunlight to reach the ground young seedlings sprout up in profusion. They furnish protection to one another while small and, as they grow, the weaker ones die out, gradually eliminating all but the harder bushes. Eventually the openings are filled with strong saplings, properly spaced for developing into mature trees. If timber growth becomes too thick and some of the trees fall to get sufficient sunlight they die, leaving more room for the stronger trees to grow. Thus nature maintains a fairly uniform timber growth in the virgin forests.

Area Drained by Amazon

The area drained by the Amazon and its tributaries is more than 2,970,000 square miles, largely untamed tropical forests. The volume of water discharged into the sea annually is probably five times that of the Mississippi. Vessels of small draft can ascend the Amazon proper for more than 3,600 miles.

AMUSEMENTS

Dietrich-Boyer Co-Star in Desert Romance

Glamorous blonde Marlene Dietrich and dark, romantic Charles Boyer bring one of the most exciting teams in film history to the screen of the Crystal Theatre for three days beginning Saturday, February 27, as stars of David O. Selznick's technicolor production of "The Garden of Allah."

The immortal Robert Hichens' story offers Miss Dietrich her most colorful role to date as the beautiful Domini Enfilden who flees to the Algerian desert to begin life anew and there meets the handsome and mysterious Boris Androvsky (Charles Boyer) who is actually a Trappist monk who has fled from the Monastery after taking the eternal vows.

A glorious romance develops under the spell of the desert moon and the story proceeds to gripping climax and an unexpected denouement.

The most ambitious technicolor film ever produced, this Selznick International Picture was directed by Richard Boleslawski from a screenplay by W. P. Lipacomb and Lynn Riggs.

Basil Rathbone, C. Aubrey Smith, Tilly Dorsch, the internationally famous dancer, and Joseph Schildkraut are featured in the supporting cast which also includes John Carradine, Alan Marshal, Lucille Watson and Henry Brandon.

"Golddiggers" Featured at the Antioch Theatre Saturday and Sunday

"Golddiggers of 1937" featuring Dick Powell and the glamorous Joan Blondell, with an all star supporting cast is the attraction at the Antioch Theatre this week end, Saturday and Sunday with two shows each night at 7 and 9 o'clock.

The world's prize beauty, choruses, tantalizing music and the most gorgious scenery ever put in a picture gives promise of providing very special entertainment at the popular local playhouse on these two nights.

Edinburgh Castle

Edinburgh castle looms upon a rock 270 feet high, precipitous from three sides. The most ancient of the castle buildings is the famous St. Margaret's chapel, which dates from the residence of Malcolm III, and his queen, Margaret, sister of Edgar Atheling, in the 11th century. It was in Edinburgh castle that King James I of England, Scotland and Ireland was born. The apartment is known as Queen Mary's room.

Monastery 1,000 Years Old Situated between three great mountain peaks, stands the famous monastery of St. Bernard. Founded almost 1,000 years ago by St. Bernard of Menthon, it is a solemn shrine of nobility and antiquity. Within its sacred walls travelers find rest and comfort.

Clog Almanac A clog almanac was a square piece of wood, brass or bone about eight inches long, which might be either hung in a room or fitted into a walking stick. It was a perpetual almanac, showing the Sundays and other fixed festivals. It was introduced into England by the Danes.

A Meat Cooking Secret From Hawaii

Professional chefs have a rival in Glenda Farrell, prominent screen actress, who has made a res study of the culinary art.

By Mabel Love

CLENDA FARRELL, widely known moving picture star who scored such a hit in the current picture "Old Diggers of 1937," has two hobbies—her eight-year-old son Tommy and cooking. Her hours of keenest pleasure are those she is able to spend with her boy, but she also gets a lot of real pleasure out of the time she spends in her kitchen.

Cooking may seem a rather commonplace pursuit to most people, but cooking isn't commonplace to this charming star, for she makes a real study of the culinary art and strives always to give her dishes that added zest and flavor that lifts them entirely out of the ordinary run. The manner in which she has adopted a secret of Hawaiian cooking in the preparation of roasts and other meats is an illustration.

In basting her roasts she uses one-half canned pineapple juice and one-half water. Deviled steak is one of Miss Farrell's specialties, and those who have eaten deviled steak as she prepares it are unanimous in declaring it to be a culinary achievement of which the most skillful professional chef might well be proud. Here is Miss Farrell's recipe, so that you can see for yourself how fully such praise is deserved.

Deviled Steak

1/2 lb. steak (about 2 lbs.)
2 tablespoons flour
1 large onion
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon herb bouquet
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 cup white vinegar
2 cups Hawaiian pineapple juice

Cut the steak in pieces 2 by 3 inches and roll in flour. Melt the butter in Dutch oven and brown the sliced onion and powdered herbs, remove onion and brown the steak. Add remaining flour and dry seasonings, brown slightly. Pour hot vinegar and pineapple juice over steak, cover closely and simmer for several hours, or until steak is tender. 6 servings.

"Tattoo" From Polynesian The practice of puncturing the skin and inserting coloring matter in various designs is very ancient among light-skinned people. The word "Tattoo" comes from the Polynesian and betrays one-quarter of the globe in which the custom was highly developed. Japanese tattooing formerly was noted for its artistic quality.

Life Struggle UNDER SEA

Pretty Co-Ed Battles a Deadly Six-Foot Barracuda Six Fathoms Below Surface

As she stumbled into a hole, her spear was thrust upward into the mouth of the barracuda, and he immediately made off with the weapon imbedded in his throat.

By WILLIAM HORNE
For I saw that funny goblin flying in the abyss untrouled,
And I knew there could be laughter on the hidden face of God—

THUS G. K. Chesterton rhymes about a fish he had seen at sea by night. And there are creatures much queerer than anything imaginable in our land-world. Creatures so bizarre and so unbelievably grotesque that they seem like cosmic jokes tossed off in some idle moment of creation by a Deity that knows how to chuckle grimly.

But not only in the phosphorescent waters of the South Seas do these guardians of the deep haunt tropic waters. As near as the Florida keys we find many species of undersized creatures just as ferocious as any octopus or conger eel or South Sea shark. And, indeed, more dangerous to man than either of them—the barracuda.

Meet the Barracuda. Of all inhabitants of North America's tropical waters this fellow is the worst. He is, we might say, the pike of warm salt waters. But, nasty tempered. Deadly.

Since he sometimes reaches the unbelievable length of 8½ feet, we can readily imagine the havoc he would cause should he suddenly choose to run amuck among the hundreds of bathers at a crowded resort.

Strange, but the barracuda of the Pacific coast is not nearly so voracious or so pugnacious as the Florida species. Nor does he grow so large.

The latter is indeed a fearful antagonist when encountered, and more than one instance has been recorded when fishermen, bathers and divers have lost their lives to these bloodthirsty killers.

Among the Florida keys and up the coast past Miami it has become quite a fad to study marine life with the aid of portable, compact diving apparatus.

School for Divers.

Scientists and students of marine life have organized special classes for the purpose.

Professor Charles Farris has such a school at Miami. He is equipped with a dozen or more lightweight diving apparatuses and a sixteen-foot launch. Fifteen coeds are enrolled on his books for a course of six months. This course consists of two submersions weekly for each student, the classes divided seven in one and eight in the other.

So far there have been none to suffer as victims of accidents excepting a student by the name of Myrlin Defore, whose home is in Cincinnati. Miss Defore, who was spending some months in Miami with an aunt, enrolled in the marine school for a course in undersized study.

"It was a lark," she declared, "as well as educational. That is, it was a lark until that day the barracuda attacked me." And here's how it happened.

It was 10 o'clock in the morning. The class was visiting just off Key West to study some new plant life that had been discovered there. Not a cloud mottled Florida's sky, and the rays of the morning sun shone perfectly through the crystal-clear waters. An ideal day for underwater observations.

Down Into the Deep.

Miss Defore was a few minutes late getting into her diving gear. Professor Farris had already gone overboard with his brood of seven young women to the classroom beneath the launch when the tardy student donned her equipment and stepped boldly down the rope ladder that dangled in the water from the low rail.

Her equipment merely consisted of a one-piece bathing suit, a pair of leaded-soled tennis slippers, a lightweight diving helmet, a sheathed knife fastened onto a light web belt and a pointed bamboo spear five feet long.

Miss Defore stepped down the ladder as the tender aboard the launch began pumping oxygen into her helmet. The surface closed about the tiny windows on her headgear and she was lowered to the bottom.

"I could easily see for twenty or thirty feet in either direction, for the water was exceptionally clear," she says, "and I was instantly infatuated by the myriad colors of plant life all about me. Far to the left I could see Professor Farris and the group of girls. They were grouped about something or other, and I couldn't tell if they had discovered me or not.

Taken by Surprise.

"I was let slowly on down, and suddenly felt my feet touch bottom. There was a very little current to tug at me, and I had no trouble in making my way toward the class. I started in their direction, carefully picking my way among the jutting plants that seemed to sway and nod gently as I passed; through the thick sea weed that grew in abundance, and past clumps of beautiful coral-like formations and patches of living sponge.

"Once a beautiful sea snake wriggled slowly toward me. Curiosity, I suppose. I drew back in alarm for I've never liked snakes of any kind, out of water or in the water.

"It was just as I now turned and started to resume my way toward Professor Farris that I first had a warning of the nearness of danger. A dark, streaking shadow flashed near me. I could feel the tug of water against me by the movement of something. I turned to look behind me, and I think I screamed at what I saw.

"It was a six-foot barracuda, and when I first saw it the thing was just passing me like a long, black, swiftly moving shadow.

"I was terror-stricken, trying to move fast and couldn't. Like a hideous dream, trying to run from a goblin with a pair of anvils for shoes that dragged my feet back. That's the way water holds you back under the surface, even at a shallow distance down, and I was at six fathoms, which is thirty-six feet, remember.

"I was six-foot barracuda, and when I first saw it the thing was just passing me like a long, black, swiftly moving shadow.

"I was terror-stricken, trying to move fast and couldn't. Like a hideous dream, trying to run from a goblin with a pair of anvils for shoes that dragged my feet back. That's the way water holds you back under the surface, even at a shallow distance down, and I was at six fathoms, which is thirty-six feet, remember.

"I fell back slowly, like a man in slow-motion movie, and that barracuda was as swift as lightning compared to my movements. Before I felt the stubble of growth on my back as I sank down on bottom, the thing was making off in the other direction, turning over and over, and the shaft of my spear was sticking out from its mouth. In some manner I must have raised my spear unconsciously as it attacked, and I guess the open mouth was so big I couldn't miss it with the spear point. It had dived right onto the point and rammed it down its throat. That was a lucky jab for me.

"As far as I could see it writhed in agony, the bamboo shaft sticking from its mouth. And blood streaked behind it and clouded the water.

"Next thing I knew Professor Farris was leaning over me and helping me to my feet. He signaled with the line to haul us up and motioned to the rest of the girls to follow. Classes were through for the day. And for every other day, so far as I'm concerned. I'll get mine from books, hereafter."

SEQUOITS FAVERED FOR DISTRICT WIN

Antioch Cagers Open Tournament Play at Wauconda Fri.; Drop Leyden Tilt

Although they bowed to the speedy Leyden cagers, 41 to 24, to mark finis to the current Northwest conference race, Antioch's Sequoits take their initial step in the annual high school basketball classic in Illinois as favorites in the district competition tomorrow (Friday) night at Wauconda.

Winner at Wauconda will advance to the regional tournament at Waukegan next week. Northbrook, Grant, Warren and Wauconda have been assigned to the local tourney with Antioch.

The Sequoits are favored to cop the district title because of wins over Grant, 27 to 26; Warren, 19 to 17; and Wauconda, 29 to 16. Antioch's opponent will be decided by the outcome of the Grant-Northbrook tilt tonight.

Hoop Proves Elusive
A couple of slippery Leyden forwards by the names of Zupko and Nelson, and a center called Long, coupled with inaccurate shooting by Sequoit forwards tells the story of Antioch's defeat at Franklin Park Friday night.

Center Moose Riddell again topped the Sequoit scoring column with nine points while Roger Thill landed in runner-up spot with seven counters. Russ Doolittle's six points and two more by Ted Larson designated Antioch's 24 points.

Leyden's high scorer was Zuperko with 12 points with Nelson and Long close behind with 10 points apiece, indicating that Leyden's defeat of the champion Lake Forest quintet was no fluke. The halftime score was Leyden, 18; Antioch, 11.

Time Nips Rally

The Sequoit ponies, after receiving a 13 to 4 basketball lesson in the first half of their tilt, rallied to within four points of Leyden before losing, 18 to 14. They held the Franklin Parkers to five points in the second half. Antioch points were tallied by George Hawkins and Houghton with four each and two points each by Burke, Groebli and Smith. Center Glidden of Leyden was the victor's pace-setter with 10 counters.

Announce Evening School Topics for Wednesday Class

Evening courses in poultry raising and homemaking at the Antioch Township high school open their seventh session Wednesday night under the direction of C. L. Kutil and Mrs. Ruby Richey. Only three more sessions remain on the program.

Mrs. Richey will discuss "Foods and Their Relation to Health" at her next meeting of the homemaking class and Kutil will instruct the poultry group on "Sanitation, Disease and Parasites."

The two instructors explain that it is not too late to attend the remaining sessions because each week a distinct phase of the subject is completely covered.

Mob at Jackson Inauguration

Hunters of Kentucky, Indian fighters of Tennessee, and sturdy frontiersmen from the northwest mingled with the cultured dwellers of the Atlantic slope at Andrew Jackson's inauguration. On their arrival at the White House the crowd clamored for refreshments and soon drained the barrels of punch which had been prepared, in drinking to the health of the new President. A great deal of china and glassware was broken and the East room was filled with the noisy mob. The aristocratic old federalists saw to their disgust men whose boots were covered with the red mud of the unpaved streets standing on the damask-covered chairs to get a sight of the President of their choice.

No Latitude, Longitude Point

The no-latitude, no-longitude point on the earth is the point where the meridian of Greenwich crosses the equator. This is in the Gulf of Guinea off the western coast of Africa and many miles from land. The nearest land is the British Gold Coast colony, and its capital, Accra, in 5 degrees 31 minutes north and 0 degrees 12 minutes west, is the nearest town.

Trick meet open at the Waukegan regional against Maine high school of Des Plaines next Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in Waukegan Township High school, gym. Winner of that game will meet the winner of the Lake Forest-Highland Park game the following night.

Come on, you Sequoits!

Locked in Lonely Cabin With WILD CATAMOUNT

Turpentine Worker in a Primitive Battle with the Fiercest Member of All Cat Family

That backward step came near being fatal to Rufe Jackson, for as he moved, the giant cat launched itself with a scream straight into his face.

By WILLIAM HORNE

THE Okefenokee swamp is a wild, awe-inspiring region. Like a world of its own, it stretches from far up in Georgia down and into the state of Florida, nearly a thousand square miles of wildness and tropical beauty.

Giant snarlers abound plentifully in the shallow waters and lie basking on banks of silt throughout the region, and the dim game trails are still the haunts of deer and bear and timber wolves, foxes and coons, possums, otter, beaver, and many species of the cat family.

But the meanest of all members of the feline tribe that prowl the fastness of the swamp is the catamount.

He is not so voracious or pugnacious as his close brother, the panther, but he is, nevertheless, a killer, and scarcely a day that passes he fails to take his gruesome toll.

He grows to enormous lengths, catamounts that measured eight feet from nose to tip of tail and that balanced the scales at 160 pounds have been killed in this swamp.

As a rule the catamount is vicious and quarrelsome, sometimes killing for the sheer love of killing, and although generally very much afraid of man, he has been known to attack without warning and kill a lone native with his savage, ripping claws and terrible teeth.

Catamount Is Bloodthirsty

Many natives of the swamp carry hideous scars in mute testimony of the blood-thirsty nature of this giant killer of the Southland's little-known jungle. Rufe Jackson, a turpentine worker who lives alone in a one-room cabin of cypress slabs well within the swamp limits, probably knows more about the nasty temper and fighting prowess of the Okefenokee catamount than any living native.

He carries deep scars on both upper arms and across his chest, and a livid mark down his cheek from his forehead to his chin from the raking talons of one of the murderous felines, and he recalls vividly the details of the hand-to-hand encounter that came near costing him his life.

Lonely Llumen's Havens.

At different points in the swamp the turpentine crews have small one-room cabins for the convenience of workers when they are caught away from their homes at nightfall.

These "line cabins", as they are called, are equipped merely with a crude bunk, a small wood stove and a few cooking utensils, and when a man knows he will be too far away from his home at dark to conveniently return for the night, he takes with him a small supply of uncooked food and prepares at the line cabin at the end of the day.

Rufe Jackson was caught several miles from his home one evening at nightfall. He had with him a small supply of bacon, meal and coffee, and with first dark made his way alone to the nearest cabin, half a mile distant.

On his arrival there he found the cabin door open, but this did not surprise him, for men were careless, and he had found the same thing many nights before.

So he crossed the small clearing, taking with him a small tin trough filled with raw resin, applied a match and placed the improvised flambeau just outside the doorway so he would have sufficient light to prepare the evening meal.

Mosquitoes, aroused with first dark, came down in swarms, and this smoking torch served to drive them off.

Face to Face With "Cat."

But he never prepared the evening meal. For he had no more than swung the sack of uncooked

Scapa Flow
Scapa Flow is a small body of water, an arm of the ocean which lies between the Orkney Islands of Pomona and Hoy, north of Scotland. It is about fourteen miles long and nearly enclosed. Scapa Flow offers a deep, safe harbor and was the operating base of the British grand fleet during the World War. It is also the place where the captured German battleships were sunk.

"Society of Happy Death"
One of the weirdest sights in Cracow, Poland, is the procession of the Society of the Happy Death, a medieval association whose members once a year celebrate their common desire for a pleasant exit from this world by parading from the Franciscan church in black robes decorated with skull and bones.

It's easier to give jokes than to take them.
